PRELIMINARY

PEONY

PRICE LIST

1922

By

LEE R. BONNEWITZ

VAN WERT, OHIO

Enroute Jerusalem, Palestine, March 6, 1922.

So many of my customers are asking for my list, that I have decided to send out this preliminary price list now, and furnish a more complete one immediately after the blooming season. I like to base my prices on the size stock of each variety I have to offer, and if in June it appears that I am justified in offering some of the varieties at lower prices than shown in this list, I will make the same reductions to customers who order now. If, however, I find it necessary to advance the prices on any varieties here listed, I will not advance them on any orders which I have accepted at prices quoted here.

So many of the rare varieties sell out early in the season that it is an advantage to place orders early enough to get an assurance of delivery. At this time I will quote prices on "Divisions" only, but I probably will be able to deliver full sized roots on many varieties. However, as I prefer to make three people happy with divisions rather than just one with a whole root, I will offer divisions first.

I have over nine hundred varieties of Peonies, and there are probably more than six hundred of them which I will never list, as I want to sell only the very best.

Peony Enthusiasts are invited to visit my garden to study these nine hundred varieties which will all be found properly named and conveniently arranged. It will please me to have your comments on varieties in my garden which are not listed, as it is possible that I have overlooked a few varieties which should be given a wider distribution. I expect to arrive in my garden in July (I am now making a tour of Europe and will visit the foreign gardens during their blooming season here), and as soon as I can see how many plants I have of each of the very, very scarce varieties like Thomas C. Thurlow, Standard Bearer, Mrs. Edward Harding, Paradise, Ball O' Cotton and thirty or forty others, I will publish a price list of them and mail it to anyone interested enough to ask for it.

In the following list I offer the varieties which I consider the finest of the new and rare Peonies, and which have demonstrated their worth in my own and other growers' gardens.

Peonies for Observation

I believe anyone is safe in ordering any variety from the preceding list, but in the following one, purchasers will need to be more careful, for while it contains some of the newest varieties which I hope and believe will equal anything in the preceding list, yet I cannot truthfully say that any of them have won an assured place for themselves. In addition to the very new varieties the list contains old varieties, of which some growers approve and others do not. I am studying each one of these varieties very carefully, and they are offered here so that other Peony enthusiasts can have an opportunity to purchase and study them.

Single and Japanese Peonies

Every year shows an increased interest in the growing of both single and Japanese Peonies. Their beauty appeals to me very much, and I have been making a collection of all the good varieties until I now have over one hundred different kinds from which I select only the very best for the following lists:

My terms are cash with the order and money will be returned for any variety I cannot furnish, as I will not make any substitutions. I prefer to send roots by express as in this way the customer only pays the actual cost of transportation. If, however, any customer ordering a few roots wishes them sent parcel post, he may include twenty-five cents additional for each root or division, and I will prepay the postage and insure the safe delivery of the package.

I will begin shipment of Peony orders about September 1st. If customers have a special time they would like to receive their roots and will so advise me, I will be glad to ship the ordering accordingly.

LEE R. BONNEWITZ.

Note:—On Mr. Bonnewitz's return we expect to issue through our Garden Notes a report of his visits to the prominent European Gardens. Will be glad to add your name to our mailing list if you desire a copy.
